

DANGER!

Don't Leave Your Child in a Car Unattended

As summer approaches the temperature inside your car can heat up to an extremely high temperature in a very short time.

The temperature inside a car can soar to over 100 degrees within a few minutes.

A parent may be standing in a cool breeze just near the car and not realize their child in the car may be suffering.

Making a quick trip into the store could be fatal to a young child left in a car even with the windows down.

No matter how quick you think you are going to be, never leave a child unattended in the car.

Be safe this summer and always take your child with you.
